The Dilemma of Indian Youth

Youth of a near-forgotten race
We stand as on a hill-top high -
See destiny marked upon the sky
In time and space.
Three paths lie clear from which to choose,
Three ways in time for us to go.
This is our hour, time is our foe:
We must not lose.
Shall we forget ancestors bold,
Forget traditions fathers taught,
Forget the land so dearly bought,
Forget the old?
Shall we join forces with the new
And learn to live an urban pace
Be one with those who conquer space;
Be of the few?
Or shall we hold to chant and sing,
Forget the lessons school books taught,
Forget the world with troubles fraught;
To ancients cling?
Or can we live with both in peace,
Accept the wisdom of the ages;
See good and bad in history pages;
No pride release?
This then is ours a path to take.
We all are marked in time and space -
Our people - all the human race -
A choice must make.

Postscript

As we go to press we wish to express our thanks to the many people who have helped us prepare this book. We are grateful to the ASB who made it possible with financial support; and to our many friends who sponsored pages. Most especially we wish to thank Mr. Lawrence Jones and Rev. Richard Wayne along with church sponsors who assisted with pictures. To the many people who offered criticism and advice, may we say that this was appreciated. To our representative, Mr. Emmett Larson, who gave us many useful suggestions, thanks for your patience. To our sponsor, Mrs. Hilda Morgan, who gave us so much freedom in planning and carrying out our plans, a special word of thanks.

We couldn't have done it without all of you!
